New Paltz Board Approves Land Condemnation

By WADE BURKHART

NEW PALTZ

The New Paltz Village Board, by a 3-2 vote, authorized its attorney to begin condemnation proceedings on some land in the village of unknown ownership, land needed to make up a new village park which has been "tentatively" named Fulton Road Park, at its meeting Monday night.

The split vote came after a number of people spoke against the park idea at the meeting Monday night, and after the three people who attended a previous public hearing on the park were also against the idea.

Voting for the start of condemnation proceedings were Trustees John Logan, John Sherwig, and O. Lincoln Igou. Against going ahead with the park plan were Mayor Henry W. DuBois and Trustee George Ackert.

In explaining his "no" vote, Ackert voiced the concerns that several people in the audience had put forward. "It's nothing but a gully with a stagnant stream in it," he said. "I really am disappointed in the site."

DuBois said much the same thing. "I can't see that we'd get much use out of it for park purposes," he said.

In addition to the site's alleged terrain deficiencies, others at the meeting said it was on too busy a road (newly-opened Fulton Road) would need sidewalks on Fulton Road for access, was in the wrong place for most village residents to get to it, and was not needed with all the recreational facilities at the college.

Igou, before voting for the condemnation, called it "simply a quiet spot, where people can go."

What is to be condemned is about .55 acres of land of unknown ownership. It is to be combined with a .48 acre parcel owned by George E. Meade, on which the village has an option to buy for $4,500.

A large group of senior citizens attended the meeting to tell the board that they did not want the park, if it was to be a senior citizens' park. The board said it was not.

In other action, the village's sewage treatment plant received complaints. The plant, by the admission of all connected with it, has never worked properly, with the chief complaint being the same complaint made Monday night, the plant's odor. Huguenot Street resident Richard Corwin said, "It's a real problem, and it should be solved."

Miss Lucille Stephens, who lives on Huguenot Street and keeps a close enough watch, or smell, on the plant to be able to supply both dates and times of the most noisome conditions, said firmly, "The smell is vile." Douglass Bartow, who also lives on Huguenot Street, said, "Apparently you want us to come around here and complain every couple of weeks," and indicated he would do just that until the odor problem was solved.

The board authorized Sherwig to secure estimates from possible engineering consultants, to get another opinion on how to make the plant smell better.

Board members indicated that they were unsatisfied with village engineers Brinnier and Larios's methods, since they did not seem to be working.

After public hearing, Fulton Road was added to the village's list of roads barred to trucks of more than 2½ tons, and some stop signs for the road were adopted.

The next regular board meeting will be Monday, Oct. 21. The regular meeting date for October falls on Oct. 28, Veteran's Day.

Hurley Elections This Fall

WEST HURLEY Town elections will go forward as planned despite objections in some quarters, it was stated at Monday night's Hurley Town Board meeting. The crux of the disputed decision appears to be the fact that there has been no appeal of the Ulster County Board of Elections statement validating the election.

A large representation of the West Hurley Homeowners Association was present at the meeting with a petition against holding the election this fall.

The background of the story began in April, 1974 when the board passed a resolution to change the makeup of the board to include four councilmen with justices not sitting on the board. The present board is composed of two councilmen and two justices with the supervisor.

Political parties since then have held their caucuses and selected candidates. The problem arose when the Ulster County Board of Elections stated in a letter that the law meant for such new elections to take place "biennially," "no subterfuge on the part of which they interpreted to mean only on odd-numbered years rather than every other year. That letter said, however, that there appeared to be no specific section of law that would allow the Board of Elections to reject the election on this basis, so it would not bar the election.

A letter from Town Attorney Robert MacKinnon noted that he had tried to get judicial review of the matter from Supreme Court Justice Edward Conway in Albany, who referred him to the judges in Ulster County.

He said that in conversations with Justice John Larkin in Kingston the Judge said he would not entertain the matter unless there was an appeal to the Board of Elections decision. To date there has been no appeal.

MacKinnon said it appeared immaterial as to whether the election was held this year or next, and to change it to next year after party caucuses had selected candidates and time and money had been expended by these candidates would be humiliating to them.

He added that there has been "no subterfuge on the part of the town board" as there has been much publicity over the summer months and continuing to the present.

And MacKinnon suggested that town elections may be arranged in the future to allow for all councilmen to be elected on odd-numbered years by staggering the terms until this goal is accomplished.

In other town business, the board will meet with a representative of the Teamsters Local 445 at 7:30 p. m., Oct. 7 to discuss the possible enrollment of highway department employees. A letter from the Teamsters, and another from the AFL-CIO, stated that an "overwhelming majority" of the employees have signed their intention of dealing through the union.

A Bicentennial Committee was appointed, to work with the Hurley Heritage Society in planning local events for 1976. Members are: Mrs. Sandy Bets, John and Colleen Hannigan, Ann Goetichus, Rose Battenfeld, Mrs. Richard Giebelhaus, Mrs. Anthony Rich, and Mrs. Fred Haldenman.

The Town Board Revenue Sharing Committee will meet with representatives of the West Hurley Library Association, which is asking for $7,500 toward its building fund goal of $75,000. The library has already raised some $50,000 through private solicitation.

Chief Constable Philip Sinagra suggested hiring two retired senior citizens on an hourly basis to enforce the newly passed dog law, and asked that the town purchase a used vehicle for this purpose. These were "interim" suggestions until monies could be appropriated in a new budget to implement the law.

Dog enumerators named were Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Cudney for the Hurley area and Mrs. Anne Rice for West Hurley.

The board will investigate initiating a retirement program for town employees in the near future, it was stated, where none presently exists. And Mrs. Barbara Paul was reappointed to another term with the Assessment Review Board.

Police Continue Probe in Paltz

NEW PALTZ Investigation continued today into a series of incidents Monday night apparently centered at the State University College at New Paltz which allegedly started with an attempt to purchase hashish and ended with an New Paltz student being charged with robbery and another man being charged with assault.

According to state police the series of events started when two unidentified persons approached Irvin Ryans, 25, of Great Neck, a student at New Paltz College, to allegedly purchase a quantity of hashish. Ryans allegedly robbed the two persons of an estimated $700, police said. Then they, in turn, enlisted the aid of a third person, identified as Dennis Marley, 23, of 9 North Front Street, New Paltz, apparently in an attempt to get their money back.

A fight ensued, police said, and Marley allegedly super-officially wounded Ryans with a knife.

Marley was charged with second degree assault. Ryans was charged with third degree robbery.

Marley and Ryans were confined in Ulster County Jail in lieu of $2,000 bail each following arraignment before New Paltz Town Justice Rexford Schneider. They are slated to reappear in court Friday.

Optimism in Medical Report on Betty Ford

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Doctors are optimistic Betty Ford will recover, but microscopic traces of the First Lady's breast cancer were found in lymph nodes removed from under her armpit, and she must have additional therapy.

President Ford radiated relief Monday after a 1½-hour visit with his wife at Bethesda Naval Hospital.

"She was feeling much better," he said. "There was a great improvement. She gave me a hard time about a couple of things, so she must be feeling better."

Ford called a medical report on her condition "optimistic as far as I'm concerned," but said, "there are also some questions raised."

As Mrs. Ford, 56, recovers from Saturday's radical mastectomy—removal of her entire right breast, the pectoral muscle beneath it, and the lymph tissue of her armpit — her doctors will be deciding what to do next.

"During Mrs. Ford's postoperative period," a White House spokesman said, "several diagnostic studies will be performed to determine whether X-ray therapy, hormonal therapy or chemotherapy should be instituted in order to ensure maximum treatment of this cancer."

The lymph nodes were removed Saturday and examined at the National Cancer Institute.

Ford got the test results from White House physician William Lukash. Mrs. Ford was told by her surgeon, Capt. William Fouty.

The tests, according to the report, "showed microscopic involvement of cancer in only 2 of 30 nodes. There was no involvement in local blood vessels. Considering that only two of the lymph nodes were involved and that there is no clinical evidence of cancer spread to other areas, her doctors remained optimistic for a prolonged survival."

By coincidence, the country's breast cancer experts were in Washington Monday to discuss a National Cancer Institute report on the disease.

For women with breast cancer that had extended into between one and three lymph nodes, the statistics said, there was a 62 per cent survival rate for 5 years and 38 per cent for 10 years.

"Previous studies have indicated that the presence in the axillary (armpit) nodes carries a dire prognosis," the summary said, although the experts cautioned against reading too much into statistics.

On Monday, said spokesman J. W. Roberts, Mrs. Ford's discomfort was "steadily decreasing." She needed less pain-killers, she walked a little, and had tea, chicken broth and crackers. She even sat up for a while in a rocking chair.

"She has good mobility of her right arm, being able to place her hand on top of her head without significant difficulty," Roberts said.

Mrs. Ford was expected to be released early next week, but must spend six to eight weeks convalescing, according to hospital sources. All of her scheduled activities for October have been canceled.

Nixon Convalescence...Maybe Three Months

LONG BEACH, Calif. (UPI) — Richard Nixon's doctor says the former president will be too sick to travel for at least a month, and perhaps three months, raising the possibility he may not testify at the Watergate cover-up trial.

Nixon should wait at least three weeks before even giving a deposition or answering questions for use at the trial, Dr. John C. Lungren said Monday.

"If he wants to do it, I can't stop him," Lungren added. "That's his decision, not mine."

Nixon entered Long Beach Memorial Hospital eight days ago for treatment of phlebitis, a serious vein and circulatory disorder.

UPI photographer Robert Flora was admitted to Nixon's hospital floor Monday for a series of exclusive pictures of the former president. He said Nixon appeared "very tired" as he was pushed in a wheelchair down a corridor for more tests.

Lungren told reporters Nixon showed "marked physical exhaustion," partly because of the strain of the presidency, but that his treatment was proceeding satisfactorily and Nixon might be released later this week.

He should then "follow a normal course of restricted convalescence," the physician said.

Asked how long that would be, he said:

"I can't tell you. It's certainly going to be, in my estimation, at least a month, maybe longer — maybe three months. In all honesty, I don't know."

During his convalescence, he said, Nixon should "avoid protracted periods of sitting, of riding, of standing, of riding in a car, airplane, bus, you have it."

The trial of five of Nixon's former highest ranking aides on Watergate cover-up charges begins today in Washington, D.C., before U.S. District Court Judge John Sirica.

Nixon has been subpoenaed by both Special Prosecutor Leon Jaworski and defendant John Ehrlichman. Had Nixon appeared on the witness stand, he would have had to undergo cross-examination under oath by lawyers for both sides about his role in and knowledge of the cover-up.

President Ford's pardon would not protect him from perjury charges, because the pardon covered only Nixon's actions as president.

The trial was expected to last several months, and conceivably could be over before Nixon was declared healthy enough to travel.

Jaworski had suggested earlier that if Nixon pleaded ill health as an excuse not to appear, Judge Sirica should appoint a team of physicians to examine the former president and report to the court.

Ex-Convict Charged With Policeman's Murder

NEW YORK (UPI) — Julio Vasquez, 31, an ex-convict, was charged Monday with murdering a policeman whose body was cut to pieces and left in a plastic bag outside a Chinese laundry.

The victim, Patrick J. Kelly, 46, had been on the police force for 18 years. His body was found outside Yee's Hand Laundry Saturday morning, wrapped in a sheet and stuffed in a large garbage bag. Police declined to comment on a possible motive. Officers also held a teen-age girl and a 21-year-old woman believed involved in the slaying. Police said the patrolman was killed and dismembered in a run-down apartment where Vasquez lived with the two women, about two blocks from the laundry.

Detectives found a meat cleaver, a handsaw and a butcher knife in the run-down apartment.

Police said Vasquez has a criminal record dating back to May, 1966, including convictions for assault, car theft, robbery and robbery-assault.

Cold or Hunger

For the aged and the poor there is always a cruel irony in the frequent assertions that ours is an affluent society. It is, of course, by world standards it is affluent beyond the most extravagant dreams. But the poor and the aged, and above all those who fall into both categories, get only crumbs from the table.

This winter, we are now beginning to be told by government officials, things are going to be worse than ever because of the rise in home heating costs. Many will face the harsh choice between being cold or going hungry.

This unconscionable prospect was summed up well by Gov. Milton Shapp of Pennsylvania at a Senate subcommittee hearing on the subject. "It is inhuman and malignant," he declared, "for society in this wealthy nation to tolerate the spectre of old people eating dog food as a 'tradeoff' for heat, light or rent money." This was part of Governor Shapp's comment in support of his proposal that Congress establish a fuel stamp program similar to the food stamp plan. The proposal was made jointly by Shapp and Senate Minority Leader Hugh Scott.

It is a good idea, one which Federal Energy Administrator John Sawhill says the energy office is considering and will report on "in time for Congress to act after the elections." There are alternatives. One, suggested by Sen. Lawton Chiles in his capacity as chairman of the subcommittee studying the impact of the high energy costs on persons with fixed incomes, is to increase supplemental payments under Social Security.

Senator Chiles makes the point that it might be wiser not to "get into a complete new program with its bureaucracy." That is indeed a factor to think about. But whether the pressure of this winter's home heating costs is to be eased through fuel stamps or supplemental income payments is of secondary importance. The primary consideration is that somehow the aged and poor not be forced to make that grim choice between cold or hunger.

Airlines' Plight

President Ford has made it clear that he does not want to use federal funds to support Pan American World Airways.

Ford's decision to reject Pan Am's request for an emergency $10.2-million-a-month federal subsidy has clouded the future of the nation's biggest international carrier. Even so, the President has made a wise decision. There is little reason to turn Pan Am into a flying Penn Central.

The government also rejected a subsidy request for Trans World Airlines, which is also in financial trouble. The two airlines have forecast annual losses in the hundreds of millions of dollars. The carriers are confronted with crippling high prices for jet fuel, particularly at many of the foreign airports they serve.

There are ways that Congress can help the ailing airlines without providing subsidies. One is to end this country's archaic favoritism for foreign air carriers.

This policy dates back to an era when airline traffic growth was spiraling and Congress, in effect, legislated foreign aid at the expense of U. S. carriers. Neither our nation nor its airlines can any longer afford to tolerate discriminatory and unfair competitive practices.

The Export-Import Bank lends foreign air carriers low-interest money so that they may buy U. S.-built aircraft. But the result is that foreign carriers compete with U. S. carriers on more favorable terms than those available to U. S. airlines. Financing a $30 million jet may cost a U. S. airline $7 million more than a foreign airline.

Another government practice that is unfair to U. S. airlines is in payment for the transportation of international mail. The U. S. Postal Service pays foreign airlines $1.78 per ton for letter mail, but pays U. S. airlines an average of only 31 cents.

It is true that federal subsidies are not the solution to the financial problem of the airlines, but the government could at least adopt policies that will put U. S. airlines on a competitive basis with foreign carriers.

WASHINGTON — The renowned Christian Children's Fund, like the old lady who lived in the shoe, has so many children it doesn't know what to do. Worse, the fund doesn't know what it did with $25 million, which was raised to feed, clothe and educate needy children around the world.

As part of his study of charities, Sen. Walter Mondale, D-Minn., asked the General Accounting Office to investigate the Children's Fund, the GAO's secret report to Mondale may prove unsettling to the sponsors who monthly contribute $12 apiece to help one of the 188,000 children on the needy list.

The government auditors discovered, for instance, that the fund sinks $2.4 million of the charity money into advertising to raise still more money. The ads, showing tattered tots with pitiful faces, are heartrending. The solicited sponsors are given the impression that only the neediest are helped.

This is not exactly true, according to the GAO. In the Philippines and Colombia, where the GAO made on-the-spot checks, the neediest are ignored "because they are often undernourished and, as a result, cannot study effectively."

As a field office supervisor for the fund put it, somewhat uncharitably, "sponsors are pleased with a success story. Children too far gone in poverty need not apply."

The sponsor is urged to give his "child" a special gift on birthdays and Christmases. But the secret GAO study found in Kenya, for example, that only 25 per cent of the gift money ever reached the designated children.

"The sponsor sent $34 to be used as a special gift," reported the GAO. "The child received $4.28, and the project retained the rest."

In Greece, money was set aside to support a school which folded up. Some of the money was simply stashed in a bank depository, with no accounting given.

As a similar school project in Hong Kong, 118 children were supposedly being assisted by the fund. When the GAO checked, it found none of the children was even enrolled. The school was pocketing the cash.

Supervision of the spending was catch-as-catch-can. Of 68 children's projects in Kenya, only six had been inspected as required. In the Philippines, only 46 of 78 projects had been evaluated; in Hong Kong, only 11 of 21; in Mexico, 44 of 147.

Mondale, distressed at the findings, plans hearings shortly. Not only the Children's Fund conceded charities will be put under the spotlight. For example, the Foster Parents Plan, according to the GAO, "will not accept the most needy families in an area because they feel they are less likely to achieve (the) goal of becoming self-sufficient."

Footnote: The Christian Children's Fund conceded they were short of project inspectors. A spokesman said that as fast as GAO turned up deficiencies, the Fund began corrective action. The fund said there was no evidence of misappropriation of money, only of inefficient procedures. A Foster Parents spokesman said "we cannot help all the needy so we help those among the neediest with a fighting chance."

BOAST THAT BACKFIRED: Sam Steiger, the cowboy congressman from Prescott, Ariz., has boasted over Arizona TV that the White House had sounded him out about serving in the cabinet as secretary of the interior.

His constituents were properly impressed, presumably, over the high esteem in which their congressman is held in Washington. Most environmentalists were dismayed, however, over the possibility that "Slippery Sam" might be put in charge of the nation's interior.

They felt sure, knowing his record, that he would turn the wilderness into the private preserve of the special interests.

But the environmentalists may have been premature in their alarm. We have checked into Steiger's claim that he is in demand for the cabinet. A spokesman assured us that no one at the White House ever asked Steiger to be secretary of the interior.

On the contrary, we have determined that it was Steiger who contacted the White House and asked to be considered for the job. Our White House sources say he made the pitch to his fellow Arizonian, Dean Burch.

A member of Burch's staff told us that, although Burch and Steiger were friends, Burch would "never ever make an offer like that." Steiger failed to return our calls.

WATCH ON WASTE: While President Ford is calling upon Americans to tighten their belts, the Smithsonian Institution is spending $4 million a year on obscure research projects.

A $70,000 project was approved this year, for example, for the study of wild boars in Pakistan. The study is supposed to help Pakistan control the wild boar population.

The Smithsonian has also funded an $11,540, two-year research project to classify a species of bisexual Polish frog. This expenditure is explained as an effort to "allow Polish and American scientists to share the latest techniques in species identification."

A good many impoverished Americans might be more interested in eating than classifying frogs.

Footnote: The money for these far-fetched projects is appropriated from surplus foreign currency owned by the U. S. government.

Post-Watergate Era

By WILLIAM F. BUCKLEY JR.

It is everywhere said that with the withdrawal of Senator Edward Kennedy from the Presidential race, the Watergate drama has come to a complete cycle, crushing with the same juggernaut that impaled Richard Nixon, the Democrats' principal contender for the Presidency.

Edward Kennedy. The explanation is by now shopworn. You cannot, we are told, remove the Republican Nixon for his failure, among other things, to come clean about his misbehavior — and then elect the Democrat Kennedy notwithstanding his failure, among other things, to come clean about his misbehavior.

Richard Nixon's public declaration to the effect that he deeply regrets his mistaken judgments greatly annoyed people who wanted him to appear in sackcloth and ashes, regretting the day that he was born. In fact, politicians use euphemisms, wherever possible. When Edward Kennedy renounced the race for the Presidency, he talked not about Chapquiddick, but about his obligations to his family. I don't doubt that he feels quite sincerely his obligations to his family. But then I don't doubt, either, that Richard Nixon feels quite sincerely his regret at his mistaken judgments. After all, when you attempt to obstruct justice and fail to do so, among other things you have been mistaken in your judgment.

I wish that we would take the opportunity at this point to reflect less on the need of an American President to have been born without sin, pre partu, in partu, and post partu, as the theologians say, — as to be born with outstanding qualifications to serve as President of the United States. The question arises: How come Richard Nixon was considered the top Republican in the country, and how come Edward Kennedy was considered the top Democrat in the country?

It is easier to answer the second question than the first. Senator Kennedy is the surviving brother of a publicly illustrious breed, and the martyr's blood only in his veins. That in itself would substantially account for his popularity, and you then add, of course, his good looks and his youth. I hear he said, incidentally, that he has developed into a fine public speaker. But his popularity was secure before that happened.

In the case of Richard Nixon, he got to where he got by a combination of extraordinary luck (the need of Dwight Eisenhower to capture the California delegation in 1952), and dogged and intelligent perseverance: ten million town hall appearances for local candidates over a period of 20 years. But Mr. Nixon never distinguished himself as a man of extraordinary gifts, or capacity. If his dealings with the Watergate prosecutors, and with Internal Revenue, and with Bebe Rebozo, were as chaste as those of Snow White with the Seven Dwarfs, would he therefore have loomed as a man more august than he is seen now to be? Isn't it clear that his shortcomings, those that greatly matter, were of an extra-venal character?

Here is the trouble with the Presidency. People are laughed at for merely mentioning as a possible President someone who is not heavily steeped in a vulgarized tendency rather to ritualize than to ennoble. It is safe nowadays to say, for instance, that you think Senator Jackson should be President. But it ludicrous to say that you think Frank Stanton should be President. Why? This has nothing to do with any question of sharing or not sharing Jackson's or Stanton's views on public policy. But a wall lifts up, as impenetrable as Berlin's, between the two categories of men. Stanton's executive experience is far greater than Jackson's. His general attraction to left domestic policies is about the same. His views on all matters are very well known, inasmuch as he has given almost as many speeches as Jackson. His position on foreign policy is not very different. He is neither much more or much less effective than Jackson as a public speaker.

Surely this is a direction we should consciously turn to: increasing the list of Americans who should be considered for the Presidency.

The mere mention of someone as a possible President has the effect of getting his name thought about. But it should be more than that. Committees should examine men from different professions. They should be written about, listened to. And the old mold should be destroyed: the one that says you have got to stick to a governor or a senator or a congressman, however obscure. Watergate should liberate us from something more than merely the lack of candor.

Nicholas Von Hoffman:

Power Is the Game's Name

WASHINGTON — John D.'s been dead for 37 years, and no senator at the confirmation hearings was going to bring up the violence, physical and fiscal, used to build Standard Oil; but his grandson Nelson was impelled to resurrect the old man, to defend him and justify him. Such is the pride and closeness of Rockefeller's living and dead, and that's something to remember when Nelson says he's an isolate without consanguine power. Why he and those three brothers are so tight they all even live together on that Texas-size estate of theirs in Pocantico Hills, N. Y.

The problem with Mr. Nixon was the lies he told; the problem with Mr. Rockefeller is the truth he utters. The thrifty, hard-working, church-going, Bible-reading grandparent he felt such a strong, if gratuitous, need to talk to the senators about was, in fact, the most hated man in America. But whether he was the avaricious hypocrite his contemporaries considered him isn't so important as the revelation that Nelson has no idea why his ancestor was a monster to most Americans. He's honestly his grandfather's boy; he honestly thinks his family wealth is a "myth" and the talk of their power a story to be "exposed and dissipated." He has no way of gauging the reactions of people who make it month to month on a Sears revolving charge account, when they read that between 1952 and 1970 his family spent $25 million in politics, mostly on Nelson. He'd probably be insulted if you told him many of us thought he'd bought his political career.

He denies his power because it's so natural to him. Does he even remember minor uses of it such as denying "Citizen Kane," Orson Welles' film classic, Rockefeller Center's famed Radio City Music Hall because the movie offended William Randolph Hearst? A small matter, but illustrative of how the Rockefeller power isn't limited to acts of legatese the family sends to represent them on corporate boards. No, the power extends to the arts, to medicine, to education, to everything — and one of its principal instrumentalities is the billion-plus dollars in the family philanthropic foundations. Example: In 1913, after the wives and children of John D. Rockefeller, Sr.'s striking workers were shot down in what history calls the "Ludlow Massacre," two local Colorado colleges, whose presidents had supported the Rockefeller-owned mining company, were awarded $100,000 grants from the foundations. (This and other tidbits from a useful new book called "Rockefeller Power: America's Chosen Family," by Myer Kutz, Simon & Schuster, New York, 1974, $7.95.)

When you're born into a couple of hundred million dollars, you don't chisel on your taxes, you don't want any more money. You want power, and you can get more power by exploiting the charity tax exemption and putting the money into a foundation you control.

For some, patriotism will suffice as an excuse for allowing the Rockefeller Foundation to function as a laundry or conduit for CIA money, but that can't justify the Rockefeller Brothers Fund spending $800,000 distributing a book promoting stepped-up nuclear expenditures. An unkind person might call that using a philanthropic front to peddle political propaganda. The John Birch Society and other far-right groups did. The Council on Foreign Relations, another tax-exempt Rockefeller subsidiary, was, they charged, the actual locus of American foreign policy formulation, and there is considerable evidence to support their point of view.

Most recently Rockefeller resigned the governorship of New York to head up an eleemosynary facade called the Commission on Critical Choices. It was here he stationed himself to take advantage of Mr. Nixon's fall, a fall that some suspect Rockefeller may have helped along with a nudge. Anyhow, now that the only critical choice Rockefeller cares about has been made, we won't be hearing from the Commission any more.

Rockefeller's defenders say that even if you lump the family money together, what can two or three billion do in a trillion-dollar economy? The answer to that is leverage. The ownership of 2 per cent of the stock gives you working control of a major corporation, but that's neither here nor there. The Rockefeller aren't going up against the entire economy — that works for them almost automatically — most of the time they are individuals. They are an organized power, while the rest of us are a nation of families which average $15,000 or less a year.

And for proof we have the giant jaw man himself, Nelson Aldrich Rockefeller, three times repudiated by his own party, opposed by the Left and the Right with the middle indifferent, and yet in Congress they're going to be fighting for who gets the honor to vote for him first. If that's not power, Jerry Ford has no reason to look over his shoulder.

KINGSTON County Judge Raymond J. Mino is expected to make a decision soon on whether or not to allow District Attorney Francis J. Vogt to prosecute alleged New York City Mafia boss Charles Panarella on a loaded gun charge.

A hearing to ascertain the facts concerning the delay in bringing the matter to trial was held Monday in County Court with Judge Mino presiding.

District Attorney Francis J. Vogt is fighting a motion to dismiss the charges against Panarella of Staten Island and John Pate of Brooklyn who were arrested in 1972 at the same time police picked up Alphonse Persico, brother of Carmine Persico, reputed underworld friend of the famed Columbo family and charge him with securing a fraudulent loan.

Panarella and Pate were arrested by federal agents assisted by state police on April 24, 1972 when they were riding

NEW YORK (AP) — An Army major was charged Monday with taking part in a racket during the Vietnam war under which about 400 men escaped the draft by payment of fees ranging up to $30,000 each.

A three-count indictment said Maj. William Sangemino, 45, stationed at Fort Hamilton, Brooklyn, got $50,000 of the total for himself.

It was paid to him, the indictment said, by Nathan Lemler, an official of Remedial Education Inc. in Cedarhurst, Long Island, who was named with 15 others as a co-conspirator but not a defendant.

A federal grand jury said Lemler charged from $2,500 to $30,000 to help clients, eligible for the draft, to enter a graduate school or escape service in some other way.

Among the methods, said the indictment handed up in U.S. District Court, Manhattan, was putting a close relative of a potential draftee into a mental hospital and then obtaining a "compassionate" excuse; arranging for the young man to "fail" his physical; getting disqualifications on psychiatric grounds, and using Sangemino's influence with draft boards.

The major was still assigned to New York City Selective Service headquarters Monday morning.

The indictment said Sangemino also arranged "fraudulent hardship discharges or transfers" for Lemler's clients from 1968 to 1972.

Federal officials said Lemler, 62, formerly of Far Rockaway, N.Y., was serving a 14-year jail term on a Nassau County conviction last March of false promises in medical school placement work.

Ford Keeps Option Open On Special Gasoline Tax

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The White House says President Ford is personally opposed to any special tax on gasoline but that his advisors are keeping the option open.

"He has an open mind on how to fight inflation," Press Secretary Ronald Nessen said Monday.

The statement from Nessen came during a day of protests from congressmen — including Rep. Wilbur Mills, D-Ark., chairman of the tax-writing House Ways and Means Committee — over reports that Ford's advisors were considering a 10 cent per gallon tax to discourage gasoline consumption.

Nessen said the gas tax increase was only one of "the many, many, ideas being considered by his (Ford's) economic advisors."

In Philadelphia, Federal Energy Administrator John Sawhill said that among measures being considered by his office to "break the automobile's monopoly on the transportation system" were higher bridge and turnpike tolls, increased parking fees, special rush-hour licensing to encourage car pooling and special bus lanes, as well as the gas tax increase.

Another FEA official, Roger W. Sant, proposed an additional 36 cents a gallon federal tax on gasoline.

Sant told newsmen in San Francisco the idea had the "blessing" of the agency and Sawhill. Such a conservation fee could boost gasoline above 80 cents a gallon and put pressure on people "to spend their money somewhere else," Sant said.

He said the FEA would like to soften the price hike for the poor with a $150 gas income tax credit for everybody.

The present federal tax on gasoline is 4 cents a gallon. While Ford apparently has killed the gasoline tax idea, his speech to the summit conference on inflation last weekend might have revived a proposal by Rep. Donald Brozman, R-Colo., to exempt from taxation a portion of the interest from passbook savings.

The Brozman proposal was defeated 10-8 last week by the House Ways and Means Committee, which is considering a massive tax revision bill.

Brozman said Monday he would ask the committee to reconsider its vote, probably in a meeting this afternoon.

Ford said in his speech to the summit conference that the tax system must be changed to encourage savings. While he presented no specific proposals, the Brozman proposal was one of the most-mentioned incentives for saving.

The proposed 10 cent per gallon gas tax increase sparked widespread protests from politicians and other sources such as the American Automobile Association.

Mills, the most influential member of the House on tax matters, said he was "unfavorably opposed" to any gas tax increase.

"I will do all I can to see that such a proposal is defeated in the House," Mills said.

... Sets 5.52 Per Cent As Federal Pay Raise

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford today set at 5.52 per cent the pay raise for federal employees, rejecting proposals for a larger increase.

The salary increase for an estimated 3.5 million civilian and military employees goes into effect immediately.

Ford had sought to delay the raises for three months, but the Senate voted 10 days ago to grant the salary increase on Oct. 1 as scheduled.

Even with the Senate action, however, it still was up to the President to set the precise size of the increase. In a White House statement, Ford said he was approving the figure recommended by his director of the Office of Management and Budget and the chairman of the Civil Service Commission.

Federal employees' union representatives had proposed an 8.4 per cent increase. The Advisory Committee on Federal Pay recommended a 7.2 per cent hike.

"In today's economy, it is clear that one of the best services we can render to the taxpayer as well as the federal worker is to keep the federal budget within bounds to help alleviate current economic problems," Ford said.

Radio Club Classes Set

The Overlook Mountain ARC has conducted similar classes in past years, and has been successful in obtaining licenses for many local hams. The course is free to persons of all ages and both sexes.

Law Secretary Shot to Death

MINEOLA, N.Y. (UPI) — A law clerk and former Fulbright scholar was found shot to death Monday in an office of the State Supreme Court building in Mineola.

Dr. Leslie L. Lukash, Nassau County medical examiner, said Burr C. Hollister, 32, was killed "probably about 9 p.m. Sunday, 'give or take one or two hours.' Death was instantaneous," Lukash said.

Hollister was law secretary to Justice Bertram Harnett. The examiner added that there were no powder marks to indicate that the victim was shot at close range and that there were no signs of a struggle nor any evidence that robbery was the motive for the slaying.

Hollister's body was discovered on the floor of the court building by a court attendant making early morning mail deliveries.

The court building is locked on weekends, but about 200 employees and 25 judges have keys which fit doors at any of the four main entrances, a court spokesman said.

Hollister, a graduate of Yale University and Harvard Law School, spent two years in India and Pakistan and at the same time was awarded a Fulbright Fellowship.

Senators Believe Castro Seeks Normal Relations

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sens. Jacob Javits, R-N.Y., and Claiborne Pell, D-R.I., returned from Cuba saying they believe Fidel Castro wants to normalize diplomatic relations with the United States.

The two senators arrived here Monday night after departing Havana by chartered seaplane for Homestead Air Force Base in Florida where they boarded a jet to Andrews Air Force Base in suburban Maryland.

Javits refused to answer any questions but said he would discuss the trip at a news conference.

The Washington Post said the two senators briefed members of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee immediately upon their return.

Sen. Gale W. McGee, D-Wyo., said the trip had revealed "no surprises" but "opened up the possibility of (further) talks, and loosened the situation," according to the Post.

Javits and Pell dined with Castro for three hours Sunday night, discussing U.S.-Cuban relations. Pell described the talks as "frank, warm and friendly."

The dinner was held about 24 hours after Castro delivered his most anti-American speech in recent months in Havana. Both senators said their discussions, which included an exchange of grievances, were in a completely different mood.

McGee said both sides traded lists of ways to better U.S.-Cuban relations that could be taken "unilaterally" without

Board Vacancy

Any interested resident may apply for this position by contacting the Town Clerk and giving a brief summary of interest, ability and qualifications. The Town Board will set a date to meet with any candidates and discuss this position with any one interested.

further negotiations, the Post reported.

"We believe that Premier Castro is interested in working toward better relations; one could say normalizing relations. That is our impression," Javits said in a joint statement issued by both senators in Havana.

No high Cuban officials were at Havana airport to see Javits and Pell off and the senators said they did not carry any messages from Castro to Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger.

Meanwhile, Sen. James L. Buckley, R-C.N.Y., told a news conference he thought Cuba should be forced to "renounce its alliance with the Soviet Union" as the first condition for normalizing relations.

Buckley did not criticize the Pell and Javits trip, as did Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., last week, but he made it clear he would accept restored diplomatic relations with Cuba only if it expelled Soviet military personnel and closed its waters to the Soviet Navy.

'PAW Day' Saturday; Special All-Day Festivities Planned

For almost 10 years Performing Arts of Woodstock has brought to theatre lovers in the area a type of theatre all too rare. With unconventional and experimental works, as well as keenly performed classics, and with special attention to worthwhile original scripts, PAW has won recognition throughout the State for quality drama. The energetic group has received heartening State grants to help it carry on and expand its programs in theatre, music, dance, and film. Now as the group approaches its tenth birthday, Woodstock has prepared for it a special birthday celebration. The Woodstock Town Board and Town Supervisor Vernon May have declared Saturday, Oct. 5, "PAW Day."

The festivities will be throughout the day, and will coincide with a membership drive for 1974-1975. A gala parade will be held, beginning at 11 a.m. Anyone wishing to participate — and all members are urged to do so — should meet at the Woodstock Town Hall by 11. From noon to 5 p.m. a Fair and Open House will be held at the Joan

Gordon Theatre (formerly Polari Gallery) near the Woodstock Playhouse. The Fair is free and open to the public, and will feature exhibits of past productions and demonstrations of the many skills and crafts that go into a production: scenery construction and decoration (Bernard Winslow, Bernard Parker, and Mark Schaefer), sound effects (Kathy Goldstone), stage make-up (Karen Brannon), costumes (Joyce Gagnon). From 2 to 3 p.m., the public is invited to observe a rehearsal for the current production — two one-act plays by Ron Radice scheduled for opening Oct. 11. From 4 to 4:30 a magic show will be presented by Scott Gagnon. Refreshments will be served, and all are urged to stop by and join the fun.

From 7 to 11 p.m. a wine and cheese party will be held for current and new members only (1974-1975). There will be music and entertainment featuring, at 9 p.m., the delightfully irreverent humor of Mark Twain as presented by Mark himself in the person of Richard Terlingen. Before the performance the guests may watch Steve Callahan transforming Mr. Terlingen, via make-up, into the venerable humorist.

Memberships will be available throughout the day and at the door for the wine and cheese party. Guests for the party will be asked a nominal charge to help defray the cost of the refreshments.

Kingston Junior League

Area Community Leaders to Speak at Volunteer Conference

The Kingston Junior League has announced four more speakers and panel members for its conference on Volunteering — "Today and Tomorrow," to be held on October 3 at the Holiday Inn. The conference is being conducted for representatives of any organization or firm that is interested in utilizing volunteers.

Len Cane, executive vice president of the Chamber of Commerce of Ulster County, will serve on a panel dealing with expanding a volunteer pool. His background includes 16 years in radio and television work; a National

Directorship of the United States Jaycees and presidency of the New York State Chamber of Commerce Executives. He is currently secretary treasurer of the Mid-Atlantic Chamber of Commerce Executives, a member of the Advisory Board of the Benedictine Hospital, a member of the planning Board of United Way and a board member of the Kingston Lions Club.

Mrs. William Vaeth (Mona), Director of the Voluntary Action Center of Dutchess County, will conduct an afternoon workshop on Centers to Place Volunteers.

Mrs. Vaeth was for five years director of the Volunteer Service Bureau of the Dutchess County Committee for Economic Opportunity. Prior to this, she served as Director of Women in Community Service for the Dutchess County area, including Kingston, Newburgh and recruited young women for the Job Corps. She is presently a member of the Nutrition Committee of the Office of the Aging and its advisory board, a member of the Youth Board Housing Committee and of the Advisory Committee for Retired Senior Volunteer Program. She also served as a member of the Committee to Establish Urban Homes for Youth, was Director of Education and Services for the Dutchess County American Cancer Society and participated in the Experiment in International Living. These are just a few of the Boards and Committees Mrs. Vaeth has devoted herself to as a life-long resident of Dutchess County.

Also conducting afternoon workshops on "Expanding the Pool of Volunteers and their Training" and "The Economics of Volunteering" will be Ms. Kay Cambone, Director of the Multi-County Community Development Corporation of Highland, and Dennis Pitcock, Comptroller of the Kingston Hospital.

Anyone interested in participating in this Conference should contact Mrs. Paul Johnson in Woodstock.

High Falls Resident Is Three-Time Winner at NYS Rose Show

Three silver trophies were awarded to Martin Kelly, High Falls resident, for his entries in the New York State Rose Show at the Hilton Inn on the Campus, Rochester, recently. The Show was held during the New York State September Convention.

In competition with exhibitors from 17 rose societies, Mr. Kelly won the Floyd F. Taylor Perpetual Good Will Trophy for two evenly matched exhibition blooms of AARS pink hybrid teas, Royal Highness. He received the Frank H. Leech Trophy for three blooms of Peter Frankenfeld. The Long Island Rose Society Perpetual Trophy was awarded to him for the best mounted photographic slide of an exhibition rose, a slide of the rose Aquarius. Mr. Kelly also won blue ribbons for the excellent quality of his entries in other divisions of the Show.

Although he has grown roses for a number of years, Mr. Kelly has been exhibiting them at Rose Shows for a little more than one year and has achieved remarkable success. Last September he won the Queen of the Show Award for the best rose in the New York State Rose Show, held at Syracuse. He has also won top awards at the Mid-Hudson Rose Society Show in June 1974 and at the Schenectady Rose Society Shows, as well as at the Dutchess County Fair on August 25.

Mr. Kelly, a music teacher at the Rondout Valley Middle School, has taken leading roles in dramatic productions of the Rondout Valley Teachers Association. His hobby, growing roses, has led him to specialize in budding roses and to study rose culture intensively. He is a Consulting Rosarian of the American Rose Society, an honor awarded for his service to others with problems in rose culture. He is co-editor of the Mid-Hudson Rose Society publication The Rose Petal and served as general chairman of the First Annual Rose Show of the Society in June. Mr. Kelly taught course in Rose Culture last Spring at Ulster County Community College and is scheduled to teach a second course at the College this fall.

The New York State District Convention is held annually in different locations within the State. Mr. Kelly served as one of the delegates to this Rochester Convention, representing the Mid-Hudson Rose Society, of which he is first vice-president.

Max Talmadge and they have three children.

Mrs. Robert Dietz and Mrs. Daniel Colangelo are in charge of reservations and arrangements for the Auxiliary.

Abby Van Buren Definitely Doubts 'Dat'

DEAR ABBY: I have a problem I sure hope you can help me with, as everyone I've told this to just laughs at me.

I know I read an article in the Orlando Sentinel Star stating that someone actually mated a dog with a cat, and the offspring was called a "DAT". (Half dog and half cat.)

I read that it looked like a dog, but had fur instead of hair. I'm sure they even ran a picture of it. Now I could kick myself for not cutting out the article and keeping it as proof.

I even went to the newspaper and asked for a back copy, but because I couldn't tell them the exact date, they couldn't help me.

That paper runs your column so maybe if you ask them they will try to find it.

PINKY II
DEAR PINKY: If such a piece ever did appear in the Orlando Sentinel, it was either a spoof or a goof. A "DAT?" DAT'S an impossibility!

DEAR ABBY: Grandma thinks she was "done wrong" by her son and daughter-in-law because they asked her to babysit for them while they took a course in landscaping, when they really took a series of dancing lessons. (They knew Grandma wouldn't babysit if they told her the truth.)

Well, tell her she's lucky. My daughter got us to take her child for five months. She told us she was trying to get her life straightened out, and was working overtime to earn money to fix up her house so she and the baby could have a nicer place to live.

We knocked ourselves out

Dear Abby

BY ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

looking after the boy. It cost us a bundle to fly up to get him, also for babysitters (I work part-time), not to mention loss of income from clients I had to turn away.

Now we find out that our daughter had taken up with a man who didn't want the child around. Three weeks after the baby went back with her, she phoned and asked if we wanted to adopt him because she was going to give him up and marry the man she'd been living with.

It's one thing to have kids who are liars. Some are bigger liars than others.

GRANDMA

DEAR GRANDMA: Yours not only flew the coop, she used you to feather her love nest.

DEAR ABBY: You had a letter in your column from a handicapped person who resented seeing perfectly able-bodied drivers zip into parking spaces marked "Reserved for the Handicapped," then walk a few steps to the store or building. The writer complained that he often hobbled on crutches a long way to his destination while some inconsiderate, selfish clod took the parking place reserved for the handicapped.

Abby, one need not be crippled to be handicapped. Many disabilities are not visible. A heart patient, or one with severely reduced lung power may be more seriously handicapped than someone on crutches.

You should have said, "Before calling people 'inconsiderate, selfish clods' for having grabbed your parking space, consider that many who appear to be able-bodied and healthy may be in far worse physical condition than you are."

ASTHMATIC WIFE
DEAR WIFE: Thank you for pointing out something that never occurred to me. You are far more insightful than I.

OMEGA Ω
CONSTELLATION
CHRONOMETERS

OMEGA INTRODUCES
THE TOTAL CHRONOMETER LOOK.
FOR CHRONOMETERS.

Omega reasoned that since an Omega Chronometer is more than an ordinary watch, it should have a distinct look of its own—balanced and precise, just like the chronometer inside.

That's why the Omega Constellation Chronometer flows so very smoothly from case to band and back again. The Constellation is a completely integrated design, inside and out, all around. The case is carved out of a solid block of metal (18 karat gold or stainless steel), then finished by hand. Each link of the band is precisely contoured and fitted to the next, so that the overall look is one of perfect harmony.

Take a good look at the Omega Constellation. It's a good way to tell a total chronometer from a watch.

Liberty, Rondout, Red Hook...UCAL's Early Leaders

By IRA FUSFELD

KINGSTON One third of the Ulster County Athletic League's football lead is held by Dutchess County's Red Hook High School. One third is owned by Sullivan County's Liberty High School. And there in the middle is Rondout Valley, the only Ulster County representative to share the UCAL's top spot.

What does this mean, beside the fact that the Ulster County Athletic League is an Ulster County league in name only?

For one thing, it means running the football still seems to be the best way to score points — at least that's what Red Hook, Liberty, and Rondout Valley have shown so far.

For another, it means Liberty, unheralded in pre-season ratings, is improved but hasn't been tested yet.

For yet another, it means Rondout is back to the score one TD and hold 'em tactics which nearly won the Ganders the title two years ago.

And for still another, it means Red Hook's turn to carry the championship banner may finally be at hand.

Let's look a little closer at Liberty. The Redskins almost always were title threats under veteran coach Woody With-wax for years... until last season when they mysteriously fell flat on their faces.

It turns out there was more to that than met the eye. Apparently Withers informed his junior varsity coach Ron Francisco two years ago that he, Withers, would leave following the 1974 season. He told Francisco to train his jayvees his, Francisco's, way because in two years he'd be the varsity coach and the JV club would make up his squad.

So Francisco taught his charges the wishbone offense and they promptly won all nine of their games. A year later, as varsity players, working under Withers and his different system, they won only once.

Now Francisco and his former jayvees have been reunited and the result has been two lopsided victories. But they have been wins over Marlboro and Ellenville, two of the league's weaker teams. Saturday's test with Rondout will be their first.

The Ganders, meanwhile, have plugged out meaningfully, if not exciting, wins over Highland and New Paltz. Coach Mikey Million's theory of finding the other team's weakness and exploiting it paid off against the Huggies and the defense did its job for 48 minutes.

The only question mark hovering over the New Paltz game was the rain. Despite Huggie coach John Ford's claim that both teams had to play under the same conditions, the fact remains the wet weather hurt the passing New Paltz team more than it did the grind 'em out Ganders and may well have altered the outcome.

One team that wasn't bothered by the mud was Red Hook. The Raiders were awesome in overpowering Pine Bush with a combination skilled running and timely passing.

What was most impressive about the Raiders was that Coach John Neilson had a whole stable full of ground-gainers to whom he wasn't afraid to give the football. Red Hook is not entirely a Jim Merriken-paced club — although he is the Raiders' bread and butter man.

If the opposition keys on Merriken, the Tim Moulis, Foster Dunns, Walt Ulicks, a and Ron Coons will gladly take the ball and pick up yardage with it.

Not to be overlooked is the Red Hook defense which, aided by mud Pine Bush couldn't get used to, kept the Bushmen, a potentially explosive club, bottled up all afternoon.

With Highland and Wallkill back on the winning track, and with New Paltz still a threat, it seems a cinch that the UCAL will again go down to the wire.

Gersch Powers Highland

"Our line did an outstanding job," said Highland High's assistant football coach, Larry Green. "They gave our backs a little room, and the backs took advantage of it."

Taking most of the advantage was J.C. Gersch, last year's UCAL scoring leader, who rushed for three touchdowns Monday in Highland's rain-delayed, 34-0 romp over visiting Ellenville.

Gersch scored twice in the second quarter to boost Highland out to a 28-0 lead at the half then rambled for 43 yards and another touchdown in the third period. He also burst through for a pair of PAT runs after Highland capitalized on two costly Ellenville fumbles in the first quarter.

Highland faces another winless club Saturday at Marlboro while the Ellies return home to meet 1-1 New Paltz.

The Ellies, who were mauled by Liberty on opening day, were well on their way to another beating. The small Blue Devils were simply no match for the powerful blocking of Larry Rortero, Mike Serini, Bob Denbia, Gary Scheuer and Dave Will.

Highland racked up 277 yards on the ground, and Dapp added another 112 yards through the air on a 7 for 12 performance. Gersch added to his 22 point output with dives of two and seven yards in the second quarter.

Highland's rugged defense resumed its punishment of Blue Devil ball carriers and three plays later jarred the ball loose again. The Big Blue recovered on the Ellenville 40 this time, and the ensuing touchdown came on a 20 yard pass play from Jim Dapp to end Randy Kite.

Guerrillas Ease Demands, Seven Hostages Still Held

SANTO DOMINGO (UPI) — Leftist guerrillas holed up in the Dominican Republic for the demands and government re-pressed the remaining six captives.

The other hostages were Venezuelan Consul Jesus Gregorio, Vice Consul Walde- mar Alvarado, two Dominican secretaries, the Rev. Santiago Fuentes, a Spaniard, and a Dominican messenger. Officials learned of the messenger's escape only Monday.

The commandos, led by Radames Mendez Vargas, have threatened four times to execute their hostages "at two-hour intervals" but have let each deadline pass.

President Joaquin Balaguer called U.S. Ambassador Robert Hurwitt to the national palace with the Venezuelan and Spanish ambassadors to give them a progress report on the negotiations.

Archbishop Polanco Brito said he saw Miss Hutchison from a distance Monday "and she had to put on makeup . . . and appeared refreshed."

Mendez Vargas had been demanding bandages and antibiotics since Saturday, leading to speculation one of the guerrillas accidentally shot himself. The government let the cleric take medication into the building Monday.

Newsman standing behind police barricades watched the clergyman walk to the consulate and speak through an open door to the vestibule with Mendez Vargas.

The guerrilla leader held a handkerchief in his hand and constantly mopped his perspiring face. He signaled inside once and the Spanish priest was brought out and bowed to the archbishop.

The two Dominican secretaries appeared briefly in the vestibule. The first kissed the archbishop's ring. The second smiled and waved to the newsmen a half-block away.

Portugal's New Leader Promises Free Elections

LISBON (UPI) — Portugal's new leftist strongman, winner of a power struggle that swept key conservatives from the government, said today he would honor promises for free elections next spring.

Premier Vasco Dos Santos Goncalves, a left-wing brigadier general who helped engineer last April's military coup, said the resignation of President Antonio de Spínola Monday would not alter plans for the vote.

"It is a point of honor with us to comply with the armed forces program of free elections as promised," the 54-year-old premier told a news conference.

Goncalves said Portugal also would respect all foreign commitments, including ties with NATO and an accord providing military bases for the United States.

He emerged as the power in Portugal following Spínola's replacement by Gen. Francisco Costa Gomes, a political unknown hailed by Communists and Socialists.

Goncalves also announced plans to replace two of Spínola's key conservative supporters — Maj. Sanches Osorio, the information minister, and Lt. Col. Mario Firmino Miguel, the defense minister, but failed to name their successors.

Spínola, in his resignation statement, expressed concern about the "climate of anarchy" in Portugal and predicted

"crisis and chaos are inevitable."

He said he was stepping down after five months as president because of "the complete impossibility of building a true democracy in this climate."

Rightist sources said some army factions still supported Spínola and the former president was far from finished politically despite his resignation.

Political analysts said Spínola was expected to head a conservative party in the coming elections and possibly run for president.

Goncalves told the news conference Spínola's resignation would bring few changes in the coalition civilian-military government of Communists, Socialists and moderates.

But more than 15,000 Communists and Socialists waved banners and red flags Monday in a victory march from the premier's office to the presidential palace to express support for Goncalves and Costa Gomes.

The nation appeared outwardly calm today despite a traumatic weekend of troop movements, arrests and reported coup conspiracies by Spínola's right-wing backers.

Goncalves said Spínola's resignation talk painted an "apocalyptic" picture of the situation. Costa Gomes called the comments "a personal and subjective" analysis of the situation.

Demonstrations in Ottawa On First Day of Parliament

OTTAWA (UPI) — Militant Indians, forced off Parliament Hill Monday by riot equipped police and soldiers with fixed bayonets, moved into a century-old federal building today and declared it their embassy.

Three Royal Canadian Mounted Police were hurt slightly when they clashed with 300 Indians during the demonstration on the first day of Parliament. It was not known how many protesters were injured.

Eighteen persons were arrested, but four were released later. Seven have been charged with obstructing and assaulting police, four were charged with obstruction and three with assault.

The militant Indians were part of a caravan which travelled across Canada from British Columbia to present the federal government with a list of demands to better their living conditions.

Indian spokesman Louie Cameron told reporters Monday night that their list of demands would be increased. He refused to say whether they planned another march on Parliament or any other action.

"For now, we claim this building, wrecked as it is, as the embassy of the native people," Cameron said. The three-story, 100-year-old building is an empty warehouse which was to be restored by the federal government.

"We have always recognized ourselves as an independent nation in this formal democracy. We have established ourselves as an independent government," Cameron said. He said the Indians did not plan to try to arrange a meeting with Prime Minister Pierre Elliott Trudeau.

"Trudeau has gone all over the place, so he can come on over here," he said, referring to Trudeau's trips abroad. Indian guardsmen armed with clubs and wearing crash helmets stood on watch around the dilapidated building while RCMP officers on foot and in patrol cars cruised past.

Reporters had to produce identification cards to gain admittance to the building and were subjected to thorough body searches. The press cards were rechecked at several points inside the building.

Slogans were painted on walls, most reading, "Bless the Native People: f—the RCMP." A small scuffle broke out Monday as a few militants tried to force their way through a single line of Mounties guarding the entrance to the Parliament buildings during the demonstration.

Later, when police tried to push the demonstrators off the steps to Parliament, numerous fights broke out and protesters broke the sticks off their placards and hurled them at police.

About 80 members of the RCMP riot squad carrying shields and long wooden riot sticks and 300 other RCMP officers were brought in as reinforcements. Using tear gas, they broke up the protest.

An army platoon which was taking part in colorful ceremonies after the summer recess aided the riot-equipped police with their bayoneted rifles.

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market was mixed today in a pause from the sharp slide of the past sessions.

The opening Dow Jones average of 30 industrials was down about a point, but gainers took a 3-2 lead over losers on the New York Stock Exchange.

Brokers noted continuation of the bargain hunting and short-covering, or repurchase of borrowed shares sold earlier, that had appeared in the final hour of trading Monday.

They said the market still appeared to be in the grip of concern over how well the U.S. and other major industrial economies could stand up under the strains of inflation and the world oil situation.

Quotations by Loeb, Rhoades and Co., members of New York Stock Exchange and American Stock Exchange, Kingston Plaza, Kingston, N. Y. Joseph Garville, resident manager. Phone 331-1900.

Temporary Good News... Decline in Food Prices

WASHINGTON (AP) — A decline in food prices promises consumers some temporary good news, but airline costs may be headed upward and a 10-cent-a-gallon gasoline tax remains under study by the government.

The executive committee of President Ford's new Economic Policy Board, meanwhile, is meeting daily to consider proposals put forth during a month of economic summit meetings completed last weekend.

The Agriculture Department reported Monday that its farm price index declined 2 per cent from Aug. 15 to Sept. 15, the first drop since last spring.

But the report contained a warning of possible future problems. Much of the decline was attributed to lower farm prices for cattle and hogs, because farmers have been sending more to market.

This would mean lower meat prices this fall. But at least part of the extra animals are breeding stock, which means there will be fewer pigs and calves next year, and therefore less meat later on.

The report included evidence of what happens when farmers cut down their breeding stock — prices of eggs and poultry went up 13 per cent during the month following cutbacks by poultry farmers.

The Civil Aeronautics Board reported Monday that four of the nation's airlines have asked to increase domestic fares by 4 to 7 per cent Nov. 1 because of increased fuel costs.

Other airlines reportedly are considering similar moves. The CAB must approve fare hikes, but it has said it will go along with those that can be justified by the rising cost of fuel. That cost is now two-thirds more than it was a year ago.

Continental Airlines asked for a 7 per cent increase, while 4 per cent increases were requested by American, Eastern and Trans World Airlines. A 4 per cent increase in air fares would mean that a one-way ticket between Los Angeles and New York would rise from $187 to nearly $195. The same ticket cost $168 before the fuel shortage.

Air fares already have increased 11 per cent since last Dec. 1.

President Ford reportedly takes a dim view of the proposal that the new federal economic policy include a 10-to-20-cent-a-gallon gasoline tax. But Press Secretary Ron Nessen said Ford is keeping an open mind on this and other suggestions.

The tax is one of several proposals under study and a White House spokesman said Ford is expected to spend much of his time this week discussing a broad range of suggestions. The President is expected to unveil his new economic policy next week.

Meanwhile, Gulf Oil Co. announced that effective immediately the wholesale price of all grades of gasoline is being increased 1.5 cents a gallon. In addition, the price of No. 2 fuel oil will rise 1.6 cents a gallon.

Ford spoke Monday to the annual meeting of the International Monetary Fund, telling the delegates that international selfishness is needed to solve the economic crisis. He said the United States wants "solutions to serve our broad interests, rather than narrow self-interests."

An Upward Pattern for September

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The family grocery bill followed an all-too-familiar upward pattern during September ber, an Associated Press marketbasket survey showed, although there were a few backward gains at the meat counter.

The cost of eggs, laundry detergent, cookies and sugar generally went up last month, while the price of pork chops and chopped chuck went down.

The AP drew up a random list of 15 commonly purchased food and nonfood items, checked the prices on March 1, 1973, at a supermarket in each of 13 cities and rechecked at the beginning of succeeding months.

The latest check showed that during September the bill for the 15 items went up in 11 cities and down in two — Seattle, Wash., and Salt Lake City, Utah. On the average, the bill at the start of October was 2.3 per cent higher than it was at the beginning of September and 12 per cent more than at the start of the year.

The latest price boosts in the AP survey generally reflected higher farm prices caused by drought and bad weather in the Midwest. There is some hope for the future, however.

The Agriculture Department said Monday that prices paid to farmers dropped 2 per cent from Aug. 15 to Sept. 15, the first decline since last spring. The lower farm prices could mean lower supermarket prices in a couple of months — if retailers pass along the savings.

Administration officials have said that food prices will continue to rise in 1975, although at a slower pace than in 1974. The 1974 boost in food prices is expected to be between 15 and 17 per cent, officials say.

The latest AP survey showed that the price of a dozen, medium white eggs went up during September in 12 of 13 cities checked. Eggs were not available at the 13th supermarket. Despite the increases, however, eggs remained cheaper than they were at the start of the year, averaging 13 per cent less than they did at the beginning of January.

Detergent, which remained fairly stable in price earlier, started rising during September, due to higher manufacturing costs caused by increases in prices charged for raw materials.

The price of laundry detergent went up in nine cities during September, rising an average of 8 per cent. The price went down in one city and was unchanged in three.

Center cut pork chops went down in seven cities, with the declines ranging up to 30 per cent in Seattle where the price dropped from $1.69 a pound to $1.19. Chopped chuck was down in six cities.

The items on the AP checklist were: chopped chuck, center cut pork chops, frozen orange juice concentrate, coffee, paper towels, butter, Grade-A medium white eggs, creamy peanut butter, laundry detergent, fabric softener, tomato sauce, chocolate chip cookies, milk, all-beef frankfurters and granulated sugar.

The cities checked were: Albuquerque, N.M., Atlanta, Ga., Boston, Chicago, Dallas, Detroit, Los Angeles, Miami, New York, Philadelphia, Providence, Salt Lake City and Seattle.

Three Escapees Are Recaptured

NEW YORK (AP) — Three escapees, from a psychiatric ward at Grasslands Hospital in Westchester were quietly captured early today in the Bronx and Manhattan.

Acting on confidential information, about 30 officers from the city police department, the Westchester County district attorney's office and the Westchester Parkway Police captured James Brown, 34, of Manhattan; Tyrone Freeman, 18, of White Plains, and Thomas Wilkerson, 22, of Hawthorne.

Brown was captured first on the Grand Concourse at 167th Street in the Bronx. Det. Lawrence DePaolis of the Laconia Avenue police station said Brown tried to dump a .25 caliber pistol and hide under a car before he was taken into custody.

Then Freeman and Wilkerson were arrested by the same officers at an apartment at 315 West 142nd Street in Harlem.

DePaolis said there were two women and five children in the apartment, but the women were released without being charged. A search of the apartment allegedly turned up a loaded sawed-off shotgun.

Brown, Freeman and Wilkerson were booked at the Laconia Avenue station for possession of deadly weapons and escape.

They were to be turned over to Westchester County authorities today.

All three escaped Sunday from the hospital in Valhalla.

The trio were being held in the psychiatric ward while awaiting trial on felony charges.

Freeman was accused of kidnapping and rape. Wilkerson was facing trial for armed robbery and Brown, who escaped from the same ward last August and was recaptured the same day, was accused of kidnapping and assault.

A Parkway police spokesman said Monday that there were indications the three men had not left the state, although he said he did not know if they had access to a car.

The escape prompted Westchester County Executive Alfred Del Bello to order the county's hospital and correction departments to "immediately begin an investigation to find methods and procedures to avert a similar situation in the future."

Meanwhile, extra guards were assigned to the psychiatric ward.

Some Mixed News On the Car Front

DETROIT (UPI) — The traditional 1975 model car year began today with mixed news on the labor front, and 24,550 assembly line workers off the job.

The best news came to GM early Monday with the announcement that the United Auto Workers and GM's Delco Remy Division, which employs 14,000 persons, tentatively agreed on a new local contract.

A ratification vote was set for next Monday.

Delco-Remy produces all of GM's starters, generators and ignitions, but a shutdown last Wednesday brought warnings by the company that it would cease operations at all 26 assembly lines because of a parts shortage.

After the word of the tentative settlement, GM said it doubted the company would lay off anyone nor would production stop or slow at any of its plants.

Ford Motor Co. laid off 15,250 workers Monday at seven assembly plants across the country because of a strike at Arvin Industries, Inc., of Franklin, Ind., which builds exhaust systems and assemblies catalytic converters for the No. 2 automaker.

Chrysler Corp. laid off 9,300 assembly line workers in Detroit and Ontario because of the Arvin strike and said it would idle another 9,300 workers next Monday at suburban Hamtramck.

Arvin Industries produces all of Chrysler's catalytic converters.

At American Motors Corp., closed for 16 days by a strike, talks resumed between company negotiators and representatives of 17,000 UAW on strike over a new national contract.

Workers went on strike Sept. 16 when contract talks between the smallest automaker and the UAW broke off.

But an AMC spokesman said Monday the two sides resumed negotiations at the request of the union.

Standard Time Bill Passed

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Senate has passed a House-approved bill to repeal year-round daylight saving time — set up for last winter's energy shortage — and return the country to standard time during the "dark" months, November through February.

President Ford is expected to sign the measure, and the nation would set its clocks back an hour on Oct. 27, 1974.

Daylight saving time would return Feb. 23, 1975.

Year-round daylight saving time resulted in a flood of complaints to Congress last winter from parents who said their children were endangered by having to go to school in the dark.

The congressional committees that studied year-round daylight saving time said it amounted to energy savings of less than 1 per cent from January through April.

Jean Adams' TEEN FORUM

LIFE: (Comment) Today at my school a girl tried to kill herself. Luckily, she was found in time, before she had slashed her wrists.

I'm upset and fed up with all of the news of young people taking their lives by jumping out of windows, shooting themselves etc.

I'm dying of leukemia and I would do anything to just be sure of living another year. Oh, yes, I've got problems! But I try to work them out, listen and think.

If I could I would want to live forever, but I can't.

To anyone who is thinking about killing himself I say, please think about me. Thanks.—Not Long in California.

(A) Most high school and college students who try to kill themselves probably WANT to be stopped, as the girl at your school was stopped. But too many are not found in time, or are genuinely bent on self-destruction.

Your letter should be a stopper to many teen-agers with dark thoughts. Thanks for writing it.

NEVER: (Q) Every time the boys get to talking, I always get in on it. Sometimes they talk about sex. Well, some of these boys have sex only for fun, not because they love a girl.

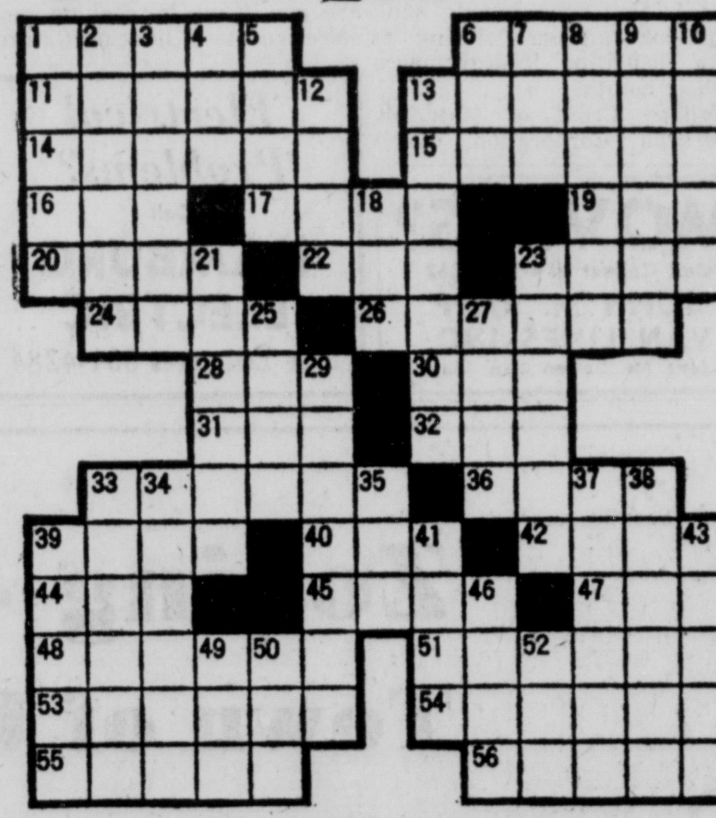

I have never had sex, and I tell them I haven't. When I do they call me names like "Immature" and "Mama's Baby." Are they right?—Virgin in Massachusetts.

(A) No. But if you would mind your own business and stay out of these sex conversations you would spare yourself discomfort and embarrassment and possible danger. You don't HAVE to barge in and invite trouble, you know.

Danger in Bidding for Partner

By Oswald and James Jacoby take a push and bid three rades.

Now South bid what we consider a rather unethical four clubs. He had paid full attention to his partner's slow pass and apparently came to the conclusion that North held a trifle more in the way of club support, but had made up his mind not to bid; so South bid for his partner.

Incidentally there was nothing wrong with North's thinking. A player is entitled to think. His partner should not act upon that thought!

Augustine Attacks Decision on Berardi

UR Director Denies 'Conflict of Interest' Charge

By CARL GRAHAM

KINGSTON — Insurance executive Roland Augustine said before the Council at a public hearing Monday night that there is a conflict of interest involved in the Kingston Urban Renewal Agency's approval of James Berardi Inc. as developer of Disposition Parcel 12 on Washington Avenue. KURA director James G. Connors denied the charge.

"As a member of the Board of Assessment Review, I believe that certain Berardi properties have been given special consideration for tax assessment," Augustine said before the Council's public hearing. Augustine charged that Berardi Inc. as developer of Disposition Parcel 12 on Washington Avenue, KURA assessment, that building permits had not been obtained for work done on their properties, and that there had been "non-compliance with several road construction factors involved in the decision included the continuation of the blighting influence caused by the vacant (Citgo) gas station on Washington Avenue, the possibility that the bus terminal and office would be located outside the city, loss of an important public transportation system (with a terminal within the city), eventual loss of the bus firm's home office, payroll, and employment, and loss of sales tax revenue on purchases made by Adirondack Trailways. In its report KURA said the report justified the recommendations," Connors told the Council.

Eugene J. Berardi, secretary of James Berardi Inc. and president of Adirondack Trailways, said the bus firm hoped to combine Parcel 12 with the adjoining property, purchased from Citgo in June, to build a headquarters and bus plan had the approval of several other businesses in the area, including a dental health group, the Sutton Nursing Home, and the Stadium Diner. He said the company would not build a bus garage or install a restaurant there.

Augustine charged that he had learned only today (Monday) that the usage of Parcel 12 was restricted to "landscaping, ingress and egress," but Connors said after the public hearing published on Sept. 19 had included a notice that the proposed deed between KURA and Berardi was available at the KURA office for 10 days for inspection and that the terms for Parcel 12 were included in it.

The only other speaker at the public hearing was Henry S. Halperin, disposition counsel to KURA, who said that Berardi had followed the same procedures followed by others in applying and that all steps had been complied with.

The Common Council's Urban Renewal Committee held a closed meeting following the public hearing and is expected to make recommendations on the matter when the full Council meets tonight at 7:30 p.m. in City Hall.

Overlook Mountain Trail Opened

By LYNN MULVANEY

WOODSTOCK — Conservationists and sportsmen flocked to Overlook Mountain Monday to watch Department of Environmental Conservation Commissioner James L. Biggane cut the ribbon which opened the Overlook Mountain trail to the public after a hiatus of several years.

"I promised the Ulster County Federated Sportsmen earlier this year that the trail would be open by Sept. 30," Commissioner Biggane said, "and the proof is here. This is an administration that fulfills promises."

Assemblyman H. Clark Bell (R-101st Dist.), prime mover to reopen the public access to the rugged Woodstock mountaintop which was closed in 1969 by private landowners who own property on the mountain, praised the many conservation and sportsmen's organizations who "worked so effectively" to get the trail open.

Bell called the action a pilot example of affording public access to forest preserve land. He told a five-year effort to have barricades removed, using a legislative approach and tackling the problem in the courts. All efforts met with failure until Biggane and the state condemned the property and exercised its right of eminent domain.

Only one incident marred the ceremonies and angered Biggane, while he was speaking, several four-letter words could be heard in the audience and then a placard carrying man who identified himself as Fred Timpson, shouted out wanting to know what took Bell so long to get the trail opened? His placard also made reference to the fact that the trail was being opened in an election year.

Countering, Biggane said, "Clark worked like hell on this." He recanted the history of the effort to open the road and lauded the effort of all involved.

Bell then emphasized that the opening was necessarily delayed because "we couldn't move on the condemnation until the court action was out of the way."

The two-mile dirt road extends from Meade Mountain Road, past the ruins of the Mountain House, to the forest rangers fire tower at the top of the 3,000-foot-high peak. Thousands of hikers and campers used the trail every summer until it was blacked out in 1969.

Persons who own property along the road (they also own the road) claimed that hikers and campers vandalized their cabins and lodges, so they legally blacked out the trail.

In June, Biggane told the Ulster County Federated Sportsmen's Club that the state would begin negotiations with the property owners to acquire a pedestrian right-of-way to the top of the mountain (the state already has a right-of-way, but only for forest ranger vehicles that must travel to the fire tower.) He said at that time that if an agreement weren't reached through negotiations, the state would condemn the property and let the Court of Claims decide an equitable price.

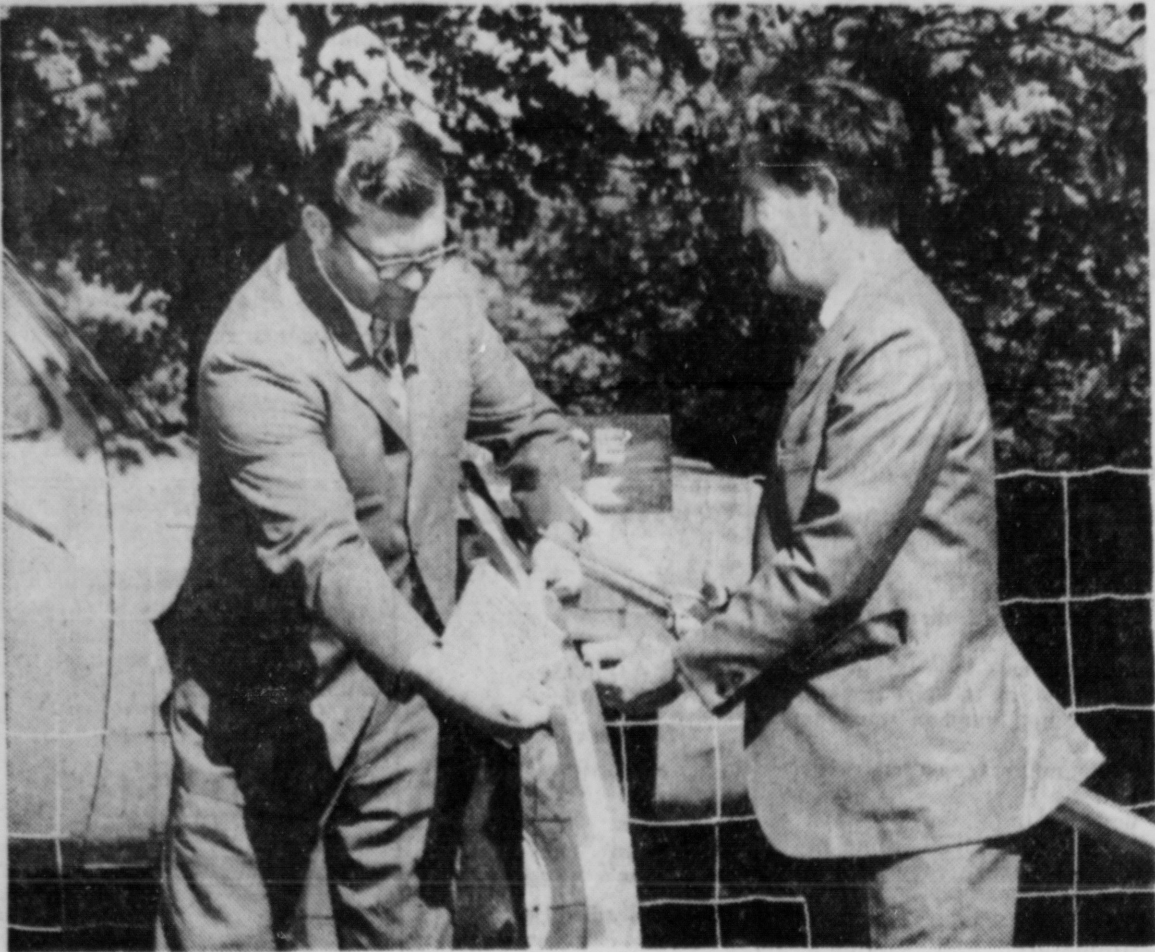

Negotiations were commenced with the owners of Be No Lodge and an agreement was reached with one of the principals but the others wouldn't agree to the state's offer. Bell suggested to the commissioner that the state begin condemnation proceedings and the commissioner concurred.

The road to Overlook, it was emphasized, will remain closed to vehicular traffic. "No trespassing" signs will be posted along its length to deter hikers and campers from wandering off the trail and on to the adjoining private property.

Legislation sponsored by Bell and State Sen. Jay P. Rolison of Poughkeepsie which would have permitted limited access to Overlook was passed by the Assembly and Senate in 1972, but was vetoed by then Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller. In April 1973, the New York State Conservation Council Inc., filed suit against former DEC Commissioner Henry L. Diamond seeking to compel the commissioner to remove the barricade. But the suit was dismissed in State Supreme Court in September.

The council had announced plans to appeal the case, but dropped its lawsuit in June at Biggane's request, when the commissioner promised to open the road.

Among the many in attendance were James Mullarkey, president of the Conservation Council of the State of New York; Wallace Rudebush, legislative chairman for that Council; Albert Hall, executive director of the Catskill Study Commission; Warren McKee, Region Three district

Hinchey Credits Sportsmen's Effort

WOODSTOCK — Credit for opening the public access road to Overlook Mountain should go to the Federated Sportsmen's Clubs of Ulster County and the New York State Conservation Council — not to Assemblyman H. Clark Bell (R-101st Dist.) according to Bell's Democrat-Liberal opponent Maurice Hinchey of Saugerties.

Hinchey, who was present at the opening of the road Monday, credits former Democratic State Senator candidate David Lenefsky for raising the issue to the public in 1970. He said that if it hadn't been for Lenefsky and the "persistent diligence of the Federated Games Clubs through the Conservation Council in the last four years, the Overlook road would still not be open today."

Hinchey suggested that because 1974 is an election year, "and a difficult one for Governor Malcolm Wilson and Bell," action to open the road was taken.

He explained that in 1957 the state acquired 500 acres atop the mountain and an easement over the 20-foot-wide roadway up the western slope. In 1970, he said, owners of the lands through which the road passes, erected a fence with padlocked gates at the lower end of the roadway, barring it to all public use.

It was later that year that Lenefsky who resides in West Shokan, brought the Overlook matter to attention, Hinchey said. Lenefsky filed suit in State Supreme Court to open the road and circulated petitions, gaining hundreds of signatures of Ulster County residents who had long used the road and were being denied that use.

Hinchey contends that Bell was silent on the matter at that time.

The Saugerties Democrat, who opposed Bell two years ago, also recalled that just prior to the 1972 election campaign, Bell introduced a bill in the State Legislature which he said would open Overlook. Hinchey maintains the bill was vetoed by former Gov. Nelson Rockefeller because it was badly drawn.

Hinchey said the governor's veto message said, in part: "The bill is replete with internal inconsistencies, inadequate references and other technical deficiencies."

He also claims that Bell "then let the Overlook matter drop, since the 1972 election was now over."

"Then," he said, "in 1973 the 250,000 member New York State Conservation Council brought suit in State Supreme Court Justice Edward S. Conway ruled against the council and for the State Department of Environmental Conservation which was, believe it or not, supporting the position of the private landowners who had blocked the public access road with padlocked gates in 1970.

"But," Hinchey said, "1974 is another election year. So the Conservation Council was told if they did not bring their suit before the State Court of Appeals, the Conservation Department would change their position and drop the consent to continuance of the blockade of the Overlook Road."

'Energy Saving Necessary'

BEAR MOUNTAIN — Area businessmen and industrialists have been warned today by congressman Benjamin A. Gilman (R-26th Dist.) that energy conservation is necessary to prevent "grave economic dislocations in the United States in the next decade."

Gilman, a member of the House Task Force on Energy and Resources and the House Foreign Affairs Committee, noted that "our energy reserves are finite. Our nation must embark on a long range national energy policy that will include expansion of domestic petroleum exploration, a concerted research program to develop new sources of energy and an effective effort to conserve our demands on our limited supply of natural gas and oil."

Gilman Energy Conference panelists included Charles A. Walter, plant engineer of Union Carbide Corporation; Dr. Quenton Looney, chief of programs development, Office of Energy Programs, U.S. Dept. of Commerce; Dean Seifried, president of Orange and Rockland Utilities; Wallace Cross, chief of energy programs development, Materials Research Corporation; Bert J. Cross, manager of Manufacturing Services of Lederle Laboratories; Pearl River; Robert Posch of Ciba-Geigy Corporation and Frank Lyman, director of operation of the Federal Energy Administration.

Dr. Looney stressed the need for the expansion of nuclear power plants, stating that there are only 39 such plants now operating in our country. He proposed an Energy Management Program for commercial conservation including employee motivation and participation and an "energy audit" of industrial concerns.

Orange & Rockland President Seifried said that utilities "are suppliers, not producers" but find themselves caught between consumers who blame them for increased prices and a government which "closely scrutinizes and regulates utilities."

He said that utilities are in upon industry to reduce foot the dilemma of encouraging consumers to conserve energy while increasing utility rates to keep up with "day-to-day costs." He encouraged bank loans for families wishing to make insulation improvements on their homes.
